

Rock glacier destabilization

Comment:

Destabilized rock glaciers with very unstable fronts and partly margins. Cracks and scarps are developing consecutively to the significant enlargement of both landforms, but they are difficult to be depicted optically due to the coarseness of the surface material.

*Cf. Practical Concept, section 5d.

Adjet, Norway
69.3639°N, 20.4111°E
600-1000 m.a.s.l

Supplementary material : <https://doi.org/10.1029/2018GL077605>

